Homesteading seminars

Homesteading today is a “Lifestyle!” Do you have a mindset of being more self sufficient? Do you grow or preserve any of your own foods, create products for your household, produce your own energy, or are you a DIYer who takes pride in maintaining your own property? If so, you are a modern day homesteader!

It’s about reconnecting with nature, fostering independence, and embracing sustainable practices. So, if you’re gardening, canning, foraging, making soaps, collecting rain water, or raising chickens, you are homesteading—along with many other activities you could be doing to provide for yourself.

This is a trend that is growing as many are searching for a lifestyle with purpose. If any of this describes you, follow us as we tell our homesteading stories and offer platforms that will assist you on your path to being more self sufficient.

If you’d like a particular topic addressed or have a topic you’d like to lead in a seminar, be sure to contact us.
